

Questions for a Resilient Future

Mark your calendar for:

Does hunting make us human?

The Center for Humans and Nature and the College of Charleston's Department of Sociology and Anthropology invite you to a fascinating evening of dialogue on the question: Does hunting make us human?

Friday, November 7, 2014

Simons Center Recital Hall, College of Charleston
54 Saint Philip Street, Charleston

5:00 p.m. Welcome by Ceara Donnelley
Vice Chair of the Board, Center for Humans and Nature

5:15 p.m. Mary Zeiss Stange
Professor and Director of Religious Studies
Skidmore College

Jan Dizard
Charles Hamilton Houston Professor of American Culture
Amherst College

5:45 p.m. Roundtable discussion moderated by
Theodore Roosevelt IV

6:30 p.m. Join speakers for drinks outside Recital Hall.

FREE AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

RSVP & join the conversation at HumansandNature.org/Charleston2014

in partnership with the CERES FOUNDATION,

the NEMOURS WILDLIFE FOUNDATION &

